Kaisermutt Translation Notes

I have a job now! This will slow things down now.

This is partially responsible for this chapter's lateness (also I kind of just forgot to do this) and if any of you read Mesugaki Cafe that will be on hold for the time being.

On page 4 there's a furigana weirdness of note. 自殺わなきゃ (jisatsuwanakya, an ungrammatical construction given that 自殺 is a suru verb) but the 自殺 (suicide) gets furigana すく, making the whole thing すくわなきゃ (sukuwanakya, if I don't save her). This happened before, where furigana makes an ungrammatical construction grammatical, but not with such opposed meanings. Maybe this means something.

The sparkling power is キラキラ (kirakira) I'm sure you can see why this is associated with Kirari, whose name is spelt with the kanji 星 (star)

On page 16 he says 珈琲通 (koohiitsuu, coffee expert) using 珈琲, weird old ateji for コーヒー. He's getting really fancy.

The page 17 rich is rich in the monetary sense.

The page 27 excuse me is エクスキューズミー (ekusukyuuzumii)

Conny McCandless. I think this guy likes Irish stuff at this point. By the way Eithne is pronounced enya.

The page 34 "you fucked up my face" had to be done.
